reform work, so as to stabilize vallage peace and order and augment the source of fighting men. This will set an example for the suppression of counter-revolutionaries, which campaign will immediately be placed under the care of the farmers associations. We shall first meet foreign aggression and then domestic problems. All comrades are requested to follow this directive and move on. They must promote vigilance against a major war."

6. From early June to early July JAO Chang-feng (), representative of the United Front Department of the South China Sub-Bureau and CHANG Wen (), Chairman of the Kwangtung branch of the southern headquarters of the China Democratic League, inspected the South China area, including Canton, Nanning, Liuchou, and Kweilin. They plan to inspect Hunan, Kiangsi, and Fulcien. At every place visited conferences have been called at which the following instructions have been issued:

The Party organization must be improved in the area. Ideological reforms are to be carried out; leadership strengthened; the Party unified; study intensified. Leaders must get close to the masses; propaganda is to be expanded. Land reform is to be effected. The anti-American, aid Korea campaign must be pushed. All must strive for basic improvements in the country's financial and economic condition. Party members were advised to use the names of the China Democratic League, the Revolutionary Committee of the Muomintang, the China Association for the Promotion of Democracy, and the China Peasants' and Terkers' Democratic Party to expand the influence of the Communist Party in order to overcome present difficulties.
